Governors sign park bill

Bi-state park system created

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

"Historic" bills authorizing the creation of regional park districts in both Illinois and Missouri were signed Tuesday morning by Govs. George Ryan, R-Illinois, and Mel Carnahan, D-Mo., during a ceremony on the Old Chain of Rocks Bridge.

Supporters lauded the bipartisan and bi-state efforts to pass the legislation.

Retired U.S. Sen. John Danforth, chairman of St. Louis 2004, one of the leading agencies in the passage of the bill, called it an "unprecedented action" that is "a model of what St. Louis could be."

"This is going to be a first-rate park system, it's going to be a tremendous asset for the people of our region," he said. "It's going to greatly improve

Doughty criticizes school board

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Suspended Venice School Superintendent James Doughty fired back at opponents during a press conference Wednesday, blasting school board and city officials and other opponents.

He also said he could still run the district if the Board would reinstate him, but if not that he wants to be paid for the remainder of his three-year contract.

Doughty - who is paid approximately $80,000 per year - was suspended indefinitely at the Board's July 6 meeting, and said he has not been told why or for how long.

"I think it's illegal and I think it's unfortunate and it will be corrected," he said. He added that the Board's action was a denial of due process, and that he has an attorney - Charles Ford of Clayton - although Doughty said he was not sure what legal action he would take.

The district has been facing increasing turmoil, including findings that more than one-third of its students were non-residents and it might have to pay back an estimated $1.1 million in state aid; large numbers of grievances and unfair labor complaints filed by both teacher and support staff unions; a split board; and extremely vocal community opposition.

Doughty also said the Board apparently met illegally Tuesday to discuss his contract.

Two Board members contacted Wednesday acknowledged that a meeting was held, but one, Sandra Harris, who abstained from voting on Concrete pour may be largest

Effort could be single-day record

They started Wednesday morning about 6 a.m. with 120 workers and more than 30 concrete trucks. When finished, workers at

METRO EAST

Gateway Distribution Center 1 were expected to have completed the largest single one-day concrete pour in Madison County. The 400,000-plus square foot warehouse, located next to the Dial Distribution Center in the Gateway Commerce Center, is the second in what developers hope will be a long line of new construction projects in the development.

Gateway Commerce Center is owned by Tri-Star Business Communities and is the largest business park development in the Metro East area. It has been touted as a perfect site for distribution and warehouse facilities.

Chemetco trial date set

Date pushed back to allow prep time

By Kerry Smith
Staff writer

The criminal trial of five former Chemetco plant managers will begin Jan. 11, 2000. U.S. District Judge William Steinhilber attempted to set an August jury trial start date during Chemetco's pretrial conference in East St. Louis on July 1, but both sides argued that more than 6,000 pages of discovery merited more preparation time.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Michael Quinley said of three court days per week, it could take six weeks to try the U.S. vs. Chemetco case.

"It will take that long to present the wealth of information the government has gathered in the past year and to present between 40 and 50 witnesses," Quinley said.

All of the witnesses, with the exception of one contractor, are or were Chemetco employees who in some way witnessed part of the company's alleged wrongdoings, Quinley said.

The case alleges that from September 1986 through September 1996, Chemetco purposefully discharged pollutants through a secret pipe emptying into Long Lake and that the manufacturer's foremen specifically hired contractors to build the apparatus through which the waste was channeled.

Quinley said the crux of the case is not necessarily complex, but the context in which

Finally, Venice board takes action on Doughty

The Venice School Board finally did something right. Last week, the board indefinitely suspended its much embattled superintendent, James Doughty. It's a move that should have been made much sooner. Not many district boards would tolerate a superintendent whose actions were as brash as Doughty's, especially during a contract's first year.

Doughty's alleged infractions include hiring armed security, locking students out of a school building and withholding faculty paychecks—none of which did much to foster goodwill between Doughty and his employees or with district parents.

Complicating the situation even further was Doughty's unwillingness to talk to teachers or parents. Doughty claimed he couldn't even find the time to talk to police or his employers for that matter.

But his employers made time to talk to him and sent a message that was long overdue. Naming former superintendent Robert Vickers as an interim replacement was a good move by the board; it will benefit students and faculty alike. Vickers spent four decades in the district and has a lot to offer, even if it is only for a little while.

There is still Doughty's contract, a document whose validity is grounds for even more controversy. It's all more issues that must be addressed before the district—or Doughty—can move on. Doughty also will have to clear up misdemeanor charges filed from the paychecks he allegedly withheld. That case has already seen a few delays, most recently last week.

Perhaps Doughty's suspension will provide him with the time he didn't have earlier this year to talk to his bosses. After months of being tight-lipped, Doughty is apparently making up for lost time, scheduling a press conference to talk about his plight.

Had he done so sooner, the current situation would not exist. But Doughty is suspended, giving him time to reflect on his mistakes and to begin mapping out his future—which will likely not be in the Venice School District.

It is also time the School Board can use to reflect on its own shortcomings and start planning for the future of those who matter the most—Venice students.

Letter to the editor

Durbin did not support steel bill

TO THE EDITOR:
The June 24 issue of the Press-Record had the headline, "Senate Kills Steel Bill." In the second paragraph, the article states Sen. Durbin supported that bill (S-395).

This is not accurate. In fact, the Senator is not and never was a supporter. He repeatedly made his position clear. Free Trade is more important than Fair Trade. He indicated he was concerned about provoking a "trade war" with the countries this bill would have placed restrictions on. The Senator apparently was unaware that thousands of steelworkers had already lost their jobs nationwide in a "trade war" due to illegal steel imports. Hundreds of those jobs were in Illinois. He mentioned his concern for the agricultural community. There are more than a few thousand farmers in Illinois. There are approximately 25,000 Steelworkers in Illinois. What logic could the Senator use in ignoring the needs of so many citizens? Could the Senator be more concerned, not with farm families, but with the fortunes of Archer-Daniels-Midland, Cargill, Caterpillar and other agribusiness giants?

The Senators answer to this crisis for the steel industry is twofold. First he suggests enforcement of current laws to address illegally imported steel. This process is notoriously slow and most complaints take a year or more to resolve and only offer assistance to affected businesses—and none to the affected workers. His second proposal is to offer up to $1 billion in loans to the steel companies—but again no special aid to laid-off workers and their families.

Sen. Durbin has been a good friend of workers in Illinois in the past. But on this issue, he is clearly out of touch. He has been a disappointment for hardworking union Steelworkers in Illinois.

Quiet town life threatened by airport

Peotone airfield has benefits, but the way of life of Iroquois County is sure to change

I grew up in Iroquois County, about 80 miles south of Chicago. We lived in a farm house, but my parents weren't farmers. My mom was a school teacher and my dad worked in a factory in Kankakee and delivered gasoline to farmers for Phillips 66.

My mom's brother, Kenny, who is now 51, went to a one-room, country schoolhouse in Milk Grove Township when he was a boy. Their nearest neighbor had no indoor toilet until at least the late 1970s.

Some might call Iroquois County "backwards," but it was (and still is to this day) just a place full of hard-working, conservative farmers who are skeptical of most change.

I reported to First Grade at Clifton Elementary School in 1968 and discovered, to my dismay, that I was the first boy to wear bangs in anyone's memory. Even one of the "lunch ladies" taunted me. I got a crew cut a few months later, but I hated it and I've had a real dislike for haircuts ever since.

Living in rural Illinois had its drawbacks, but overall it was a peaceful place to raise a child. The schools were good, there was zero crime and the vexing problems raging through the rest of the planet never seemed to light upon our little world. We had no war protesters (on either side), no black nationalists (blacks had their own little town a few miles up the road that nobody ever talked about), no drug "problem" (except for booze).

We got most of our news about the world's continual crises from Chicago—the center of several crises of its own—but that 80-mile buffer between us and the city might as well have been 800. We lived in a totally different world. We could barely see a glow from Chicago's lights in the night sky to the north, but that was the extent of the city's influence on Iroquois County.

Well, the nighttime glow from the city is a lot brighter these days and it takes up a whole lot more sky. The Chicago region began moving south in earnest earlier this decade. The proposed airport near Peotone would certainly bring more development to the south suburbs, which would make that glow in the sky even brighter—and much, much closer.

One of life's annual high points for me as a child was the Iroquois County Fair. Starting at age 10, I would spend all of my days and many of my nights at the fairgrounds, usually unsupervised. I passed the time hanging out with friends and cars every year to show and then sell. There were no parental admonitions about not talking to strangers. When a stranger was having trouble with his or her animal, for instance, we were supposed to do whatever we could to help.

The fair was pure heaven. I had a charge account at a church-run restaurant, enough money for rides and games, plenty of friends to pal around with, and the excitement of preparing for the competition of showing my animal. Best of all, I got to stay overnight, away from adults. Like I said, pure heaven.

Despite all the changes in the world, the Iroquois County Fair isn't much different these days. Kids still roam free in a safe yet benignly watchful environment, all booze is still strictly prohibited, the curfew is still enforced. Going to that fair is like walking into the 1950s (which didn't get to Iroquois County until the mid-80s or so).

But I doubt this will last much longer. In fact, I'm certain of it. People have been moving into the area from up north throughout the decade. Even if the Peotone airport isn't built, the encroaching megapolis will eventually engulf my old homeland, perhaps even enveloping it in that ever-southward-moving dome of night light.

Those who aren't fortunate enough to own a farm in that area will really need the jobs that the southward expansion should bring. And my Uncle Kenny, for one, can't wait for the new airport because of how much closer it will be than O'Hare.

The Peotone airport is going to do a lot of good for a lot of people. But the Iroquois County I know will surely vanish forever.

Joint signing only the first step of many, say leaders

Danforth: There's never been a day like this

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

Words like "historic" and "unprecedented," along with quite a few "bi-partisans," were banded about with a great deal of enthusiasm Tuesday at the Illinois-Missouri border on the Old Chain of Rocks Bridge.

METRO EAST The signing of a mirror legislation to establish regional park districts in Illinois and Missouri is being praised by state and local officials as a first step toward a more regional and bi-partisan approach to issues.

Gov. Mel Carnahan, D-Missouri and Gov. George Ryan, R-Illinois, signed legislation allowing the creation of the districts at a ceremony Tuesday on the recently reopened bridge.

Senate Bill 405 in Missouri and House Bill 702 in Illinois were sponsored by representatives and senators from both parties and went quickly through the legislatures.

"I don't know if there has ever been a day like this in the history of our region," said retired U.S. Sen. John Danforth, chairman of St. Louis 2004.

"This is a shining display of bipartisan consensus across state lines by our elected officials," he said. "Today's bill signing ceremony celebrates an unprecedented opportunity to improve our quality of life by creating safe parks and community trails."

Both governors also praised the cooperation between local and state officials.

"The effort to develop and pass this legislation was a tremendous demonstration of cooperation among the participating counties and state officials," said Carnahan. "Without the kind of cooperation we had, we wouldn't be able to have this kind of success we have here today," Ryan said.

Illinois legislators were equally enthusiastic about the bill.

"Because of broad bi-partisan support and bi-state cooperation, we have legislation that gives residents throughout the St.

Louis metropolitan area the opportunity to improve water quality, increase park safety and provide community trails," said Illinois Sen. James Clayborne, D-East St. Louis.

"I think this is a rare opportunity that shows bi-partisan and bi-state cooperation," said Illinois Rep. Tom Holbrook, D-Bellefonte. "It gives all the residents of the entire St. Louis metropolitan area to take advantage of some quality of life issues when they go to the polls."

Missouri legislators were equally vocal.

"The passage of this legislation in both Missouri and Illinois presents a wonderful opportunity for the entire St. Louis metropolitan area," said Missouri Sen. John Scott, D-St. Louis.

Voters in 11 counties on both sides of the river will vote on a referendum to establish the park district in their counties — probably in the 2000 presidential election.

Police Blotter

Granite City Police

• FELONY RETAIL THEFT: Jimmie Hampton, 33, of 215 Kerr, Venice, was charged with felony retail theft, Hampton, according to a police report, tried to steal about $160 of merchandise from Big Kmart in Granite City.

• UNLAWFUL POSSESSION OF A WEAPON: Terry Williams, 41, of 1009 Reynolds, Madison, was charged with unlawful possession of a weapon and not having a FOID card. He was cited for disregarding a stop sign.

Williams was pulled over on Grand Avenue for rolling through a stop sign. While searching Williams' vehicle, an officer confiscated two semi-automatic pistols and numerous bullets. Williams, a police report stated, consented to the search.

• POSSESSION OF A CONTROLLED SUBSTANCE: Camella Fenske, 24, of 1040 Douglas, Madison, was charged with unlawful possession of a controlled substance and unlawful possession of a firearm.

Fenske was walking north in the 1500 block of Madison when she was taken into custody on an outstanding warrant.

During a search of Fenske's purse, undercover officers confiscated drug paraphernalia and the stun gun.

• CRIMINAL DAMAGE TO PROPERTY: Two cases of criminal damage to property have been reported to Granite City authorities. In the 3000 block of Nameoki Road, paint was reported splashed on a garage about 8:30 p.m. Monday.

At about 11:15 p.m. July 1, a front door window was smashed at a residence in the 1600 block of Delmar. Police have a suspect and are investigating the case.

Two criminal damage to property incidents involving cars took place Monday. In the first incident, which took place at the 2200 block of Monroe Street, the victim said she saw someone tampering with her vehicle and trying to break into it shortly after midnight.

The second incident took place at approximately 3 a.m. on the 2200 block of Grand Avenue, the car's owner reported the windshield was smashed.

• AUTO BURGLARY: Jason Ruan, 20, of 2145 Monroe Ave., Granite City, was charged Monday with auto burglary and obstructing a peace officer.

Monroe and three teen-agers were seen by a Madison police officer exiting a 1994 red Ford Mustang convertible about 9:30 p.m. in an alley behind Edwards and Third streets.

After the officer spoke with the teen-agers and Ruan, the officer learned that Ruan gave a false name and had allegedly stolen the car. It was reported stolen about 8:30 p.m.

• DOMESTIC ABUSE: Boyd Clark, 39, of 2827 Marshall Ave., Granite City, was charged Monday with felony domestic battery. Police reports indicated were dispatched to the address at about 12:50 a.m. because of a disturbance. While talking to the victim, the officers learned that Clark had allegedly struck her in the face, causing her eye to swell. The victim also had a cut on her back.

• POSSESSION OF CANNIBAS: Thomas Margason, 25, of 2421 Hodge Ave., Granite City, was charged Monday with unlawful possession of cannabis.

After speaking with Margason about 11:45 p.m. Monday in regard to gunshots possibly being fired around East 25th Street, an officer allegedly noticed some marijuana being tucked into his pants pocket. Officers confiscated the marijuana and arrested him.

• CRIMINAL SEXUAL ASSAULT: Norman Fulkerson, 25, of 3816 B St., Pontoon Beach, was charged Monday with aggravated criminal sexual assault, aggravated battery and unlawful restraint.

Fulkerson is being held at the Madison County Jail in Edwardsville, bond was set at $100,000. Reports indicated the victim was battered and raped Saturday night and early Sunday morning. After speaking with the victim later Sunday morning, Fulkerson was taken into custody.

• BOMBING: Three teen-agers from Pontoon Beach were arrested early Monday morning after they detonated a small, makeshift bomb. The teen-agers, two of which were 16 and the other 15, detonated what authorities called an "internet bomb" about 4:40 a.m. along Georgetown Street. Chemicals from the blast damaged a mailbox and frightened several people in the neighborhood.

Authorities were dispatched to Georgetown Street after receiving a call about a loud noise.

• AUTO THEFT: Madison police took four teen-agers into custody after they abandoned and fled a stolen car.

The four — including a 13-year-old girl — were turned over to Granite City police.

According to reports, at about 9:30 p.m. Friday, a Madison officer apprehended the four near the intersection of Highland Avenue and Fifth Street after another officer reported seeing them abandon a car in the 1700 block of Third.

The 1994 Ford Mustang had been reported stolen by the Granite City Police Department minutes earlier.

• ASSAULT: Jerry Sutt, 36, of the 2000 block of Harris, was charged with misdemeanor aggravated assault, disorderly conduct and resisting a police officer after an incident Friday evening.

Police responded to a call by Sutt of a neighbor striking a dog at about 8:45 p.m. When police arrived, Sutt said he saw the neighbor hit the dog, then confronted him and was pushed by the neighbor.

The neighbor said the dog — which he owned — tried to bite him, so he hit it in the nose. Sutt was arrested after allegedly threatening the neighbor in the officer's presence and was placed under arrest.

He allegedly continued to threaten both the neighbor and officer. Once placed in a cell at the Madison police department, Sutt allegedly used toilet paper, then a sock, his shirt and a mattress to block the cell's video camera.

After all those things were taken away, he reportedly tried to block the camera with his hand, but eventually fell asleep. He was later released.

The neighbor was issued a civil complaint by the city's animal control officer for striking the dog.

Eighteen people who were part of a marijuana ring that operated in Metro East as well as in Texas, New Mexico, Ohio and Missouri have been convicted.

Richard Gibson, 43, of 1213 Heather St., Granite City, was sentenced to two years at the Greenville Correctional Center for storing marijuana in his home. He was also fined $1,000 by U.S. District Judge William Steinhilber, who told Gibson he had to pay $100 court costs.

Authorities searched Gibson's home in July 1997, confiscating nearly 50 kilograms of marijuana and $85,000 in drug-related money.

Authorities did not say how long it was stored at the residence before they were alerted to it. They do know, however, that about 4,000 kilograms of marijuana could have been distributed.

THE LAW AND YOU

By RICK REED
Attorney At Law

Sometimes a person will lend money to a relative or a friend, and the loan will not be repaid. Therefore, one needs to consider what precautionary measures can be taken at the time of the loan to insure repayment.

In one recent case, a woman loaned $10,000.00 to her sister. No paperwork was signed, but the sister borrowed the money to write a letter to the lending sister promising repayment. For two years the borrower repaid the loan on a regular basis, but then stopped repaying the loan, and later indicated that no more sums would be paid.

Despite repeated demands, there remained a balance owing in the amount of $8,000.00. The lending sister decided to file suit against her sister, filing seeking the unpaid balance. Ultimately she received a judgment and she filed a garnishment against her sister's paycheck. In the end, all the money was repaid.

The question arose in this case as to what could be done in the beginning to protect the lender. It undoubtedly would have benefited the lender to have the borrower sign a promissory note. A note can provide that the borrower will have to pay attorney's fees if collection efforts become necessary. Without the promissory note, each party will probably have to pay his or her own attorney's fees. In addition, the signing of a promissory note will extend the statute of limitations on a case like this. An oral contract can only be enforced for a five year period while a written contract has a ten year statute of limitations. The presence of a promissory note also assures that the lender collects interest on the unpaid balance.

Many people lending to family or friends also require a pledge of a security interest in the property of the borrower. Some seek a second mortgage on the borrower's home, while others prefer a lien on the automobile of the borrower. In any event, a pledge of security (collateral) gives the lender more leverage when attempting to collect the balance owed.

In summary, many feel it is not a good idea to lend money to family or friends. History seems to indicate that such a loan often puts a strain on the family or the friendship. If the lender is comfortable, however, the least the person who is to obtain a promissory note and a security interest in the property of the borrower.

Anticipated revenue for Pontoon Beach for the 1999-2000 fiscal year is expected to be at $2.4 million. However, it is a common practice for municipal boards to appropriate more than it expects to spend, in this case, a $2.6 million budget.

million in general fund expenditures, which pay for most of the day-to-day operating expenses of the village.

The largest single item in the general fund is for police protection, budgeted at $784,745. Contractual services, ranging from engineering to insurance and utilities, will cost an estimated $473,700. Administration costs are budgeted at $213,850.

Special fund expenditures total $765,000. That includes motor fuel tax — $143,000; tax increment financing district — $350,000; tourism fund — $50,000; and pensions and healthcare — $122,000.

In other business, the board approved an ordinance creating a second building inspector position and allowing them to also perform occupancy permit inspections.

In the past, the village had different inspectors for both positions.

Sears employee charged in theft

By Linda N. Weller
Staff writer

A longtime employee of Sears Roebuck and Co. was charged Friday with theft and money laundering for allegedly stealing nearly $75,000 worth of cash and merchandise from the Alton Square store.

The Madison County State's Attorney's Office charged Patricia A. Cureton, 47, of the first block of South Meadow Lane in Glen Carbon, with the offenses.

Police arrested Cureton at 2:30 p.m. Thursday at the Alton Police Department. The money laundering charge alleges that Cureton cashed false merchandise refunds, then transferred the proceeds, totaling $56,830, to her personal credit cards.

Cureton also is accused of charging $17,702 in purchases of furniture and other goods to a bogus account, police said, prompting the theft charge.

The thefts allegedly occurred between Nov. 20, 1998, and May 30, 1999, according to the charges.

A judge set a total bond of $50,000.

Police said Sears internal security staff detected the thefts.

Brenda Whitaker, most likely over a 10-year period. The property consists of three lots along the main thoroughfare.

Whitaker plans to rehab them into a tea room, gift shop and outdoor dining area, encompassed by an attractive landscaped garden setting. Whitaker told alderman at the downtown economic meeting Tuesday evening that she would be able to "completely renovate a piece of property that has for many years been a cancer to the neighborhood, bring about jobs and create a focal point to the main entrance of the city."

the quality of life in St. Louis, it's going to be a magnet for tourists and economic development in our region.

"But more important even than this wonderful park system, this is a model of regionalism, and it's a symbol of the St. Louis region moving ahead," Danforth added. Both governors praised their legislatures for the bill's passage.

"It clearly demonstrates that our states can work together at efforts aimed at improving the lives of the citizens of the greater St. Louis area, regardless of which side of the river on which one resides," Carnahan said. "This measure puts Missouri and Illinois in the forefront of recreational planning and is truly an exciting opportunity for our states."

Ryan said it was the first of what he hoped to be continued cooperation between the two states.

"With the help of our neighbors in Missouri, we're going to reach back and forth across political and geographical boundaries to create a new era of political cooperation," he said. Supporters said it would be the first bi-state park system in the nation.

The bills, Senate Bill 405 in Missouri and House Bill 702 in Illinois, authorize the creation of separate metropolitan park and recreation districts in the two states and a half-cent sales tax to fund them.

Concrete pour to be area's largest

"Hopefully we'll see a steady flow of development from this point forward," said Tri-Star President Mike Towerman.

He compared the Gateway project to Earth City developments.

"In Earth City, they build three good-sized buildings a year," he said. "We think we're going to draw attention from a much broader area, so we might actually outpace that."

The Gateway Distribution Center 1 is a joint venture between Korte Construction, Lanter Corp. and Tri-Star.

Work began on the structure about one month ago, and workers began pouring the concrete floor Tuesday.

"We started about a week ago making sure we could line up and finalize it yesterday afternoon," Todd Korte, vice president of marketing for Korte Construction, said Wednesday at the site.

Work began that day about 6 a.m., and was expected to end when the sun went down. Korte said they expected to pour 108,000 square feet of concrete that day.

Combined with about 60,000 square feet poured Tuesday, he said they would be about one-third complete on the flooring.

When completed, the building will have about 403,000 square feet. The project is expected to be completed around Oct. 1. Korte said they appeared to be right on schedule.

"So far it's been great," he said. "You can't ask for a better day to pour concrete."

Korte said they expect to have a lot of work at the business park.

"We're constantly working with Tri-Star," he said.

"They're constantly bringing in potential tenants and owners. Hopefully within the next couple of months there will be some more work out here."

"There's plenty of acreage to build forever, for 20 years at least," he added.

Towerman said they have no new projects to announce at this point, but hoped to have something before the end of the year.

"We always have a nice handful of tire kickers that we talk to," he said.

While both the Dial and Lanter projects are distribution warehouses, Towerman said he also hopes to attract manufacturing and commercial projects as well.

"While manufacturing facilities are not being built at a fast rate throughout the country, you are seeing a shift from manufacturers warehousing their own product," he said.

He added that third-party warehousing is growing at about 15-20 percent per year.

Doughty criticizes school board

Doughty's suspension, said it was about a personnel issue not directly relating to Doughty, while Metro Pierson, a Doughty opponent, said he was the subject of the meeting.

Acting superintendent Robert Vickers said the board had met Tuesday, but said whether it was illegal was "a matter of interpretation."

He said Board Attorney Ben Edwards had said that it was an emergency meeting that needed to be held.

According to the Illinois Open Meetings Act, meetings can be held "in the event of a bona fide emergency" but must still be posted.

Vickers said no action was taken at Tuesday's meeting, and any action would occur at the meeting next Thursday.

Since February, Doughty has declined to address most of the issues facing the Venice School District publicly.

At the press conference, held at Jerry's Cafeteria in Granite City, he said that was a mistake, and proceeded to talk for more than an hour about the situation in the district.

Among Doughty's claims:

• Board member Bill Tyler has two children who attend the Madison School District.

Tyler could not be reached for comment, but has publicly denied Doughty's accusations, saying his children live with their mother in the Madison School District.

• Venice Mayor Tyrone Echols and other city officials want control of the school district to control employment there. Echols has repeatedly said he did not want control of the district.

• Board President Alvester Salmond "defected" to the opposition because of pressure from her husband, district bus driver Eddie Lee Salmond. He also claimed Salmond controlled his wife's vote.

• Claimed opponents made "reckless" and "irresponsible" accusations against him and "decided to promote absolute chaos" in the district.

"Personally I don't think that's a fair judgment," said Board member Metro Pierson, an opponent of Doughty.

"We've always tried to put the children first as well as keep the school district running properly. I feel that was a very unfair accusation."

• Accused the split board of driving out former Superintendent John Rush and forcing him into early retirement.

• Said that when he came to the district, it had no curriculum guides or teaching plan.

Doughty said that in the past year at Venice, he had accumulated 11 large notebooks full of documents relating to the district.

When he came to the district, Doughty said, he had researched it and knew it would be a difficult job.

He said a major problem—that he found for himself and was also told by board members—is the quality of employees. "The bar was set so low that everybody was OK," he said.

He also said that the recent controversy surrounding nonresident students is actually a very old issue, and the district "always" kept two sets of books—one with students' actual addresses, another with addresses within the district.

Chemetco trial date set

it occurred and the length of time the alleged violations took place make preparation for the case a heavy task.

Attorney Bruce Cook is representing Chemetco, and five separate attorneys are representing the individual defendants in the case, each of whom worked as either maintenance superintendents or foremen during the decade in question.

John Rekowski, attorney for defendant Gary L. Reed, was one of the counselors who requested a longer lead time for the trial.

"January seems much more realistic," said Rekowski. "Even though we represent a circuit of experts in the chemical field, August would have been much too early of a trial date to properly prepare for, especially since the government has been working on this case and its witnesses against Chemetco for at least a year."

Last week, company officers facing federal conspiracy charges were named as defendants in a civil lawsuit initiated by Granite City property owner Elroy Paschedag Jr. The plaintiff lives on land adjacent to Long Lake and alleges that his property and others' is contaminated by polluted waste water from Chemetco's periodic discharging.

Steelers split twinbill with Redbirds

Granite City offense shows signs of shaking its slump

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Granite City was unable to steal two from Fairview Heights at Longacre Park in Fairview Heights on Sunday afternoon.

But the Steelers did gain a split in the Mon-Clair League doubleheader and, more importantly, broke the string of lame offense that has lately hamstrung any attempts to get on top of the .500 mark.

Granite City pounded out 14 hits to win the first game 9-4. The Steelers scored one in the first, six in the third and two in the fourth, and held on as Fairview mounted a middle-inning assault on starter Mike Ort, who went five innings.

Ort surrendered eight earned runs on 13 hits, walked three and struck out three. Reliever Josh Stewart came on in the sixth and shut down the Redbirds over the last two innings to save the game.

Brian Scroggins was 3 for 4 with two RBI for the Steelers. Matt Evers and Mike Ort each went 2 for 3 with three RBI between them. Jeff Ridenour and Brian Harshany went 2 for 4.

Fairview Heights prevailed 6-5 in the second game, which took eight innings to decide.

"The hitting is something that we have been struggling with.... We have only been averaging around four or five hits and one or two runs per game over the past four or five games."

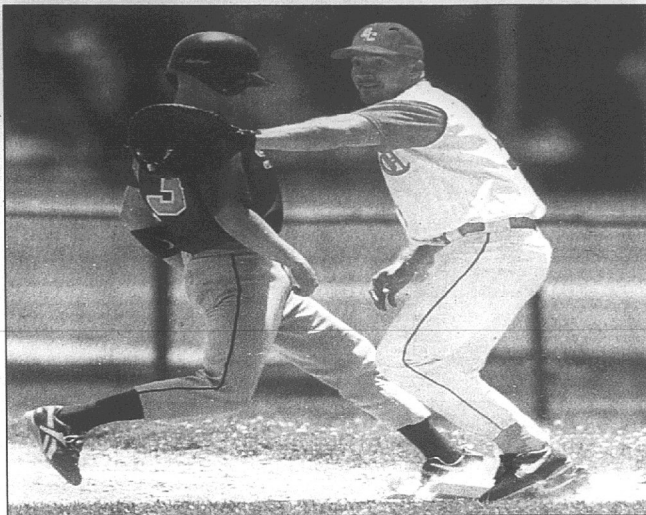

Brian Harshany
Granite City manager

With two outs in the top of the eighth, the Redbirds got a single and a stolen base to put a runner on second. The next batter came through with an RBI single for the margin of victory. The Redbirds got Granite City out in order in the home half of the eighth to secure the win.

Evers and Todd Haug each went 1 for 3 with an RBI in the second game. Harshany was 2 for 3 with an RBI and Scroggins was 2 for 4 and drove in one. The Steelers got nine hits overall in the second game.

Dan Sergott went eight innings and took the loss for Granite in the second game.

Granite City manager and first baseman Brian Harshany had four hits in the Steelers' doubleheader split with Fairview Heights on Sunday. Each contest was decided by only one run.

Buds contingent led all-star team

Special to the Journal

The Waterloo Buds dominated the Mon-Clair League all-star selections for the league's show-down with the Metro Collegians all-stars.

The contest, which was played Wednesday in Sauget, marked the second meeting between the two leagues. The Mon-Clair stars won 9-3 last year.

John Wahlig, last year's MVP, returns to the lineup this year and was joined by seven other Buds. Waterloo players who started the game were second baseman Neil Fiala, shortstop Jeff Kaiser, catcher Jim Anderson and pitcher Darin Hendrickson (3-2, 2.63 ERA). The reserves from the Buds roster were outfielder Clay Mochrs, catcher John Baxmeyer and pitcher Cory Blackwell.

Completing the starting lineup for the Mon-Clair League were first baseman Brett Crawford and leftfielder Mason Horne from almeier; centerfielder Chris Rickard and designated hitter Bob Walter from Millstadt; third baseman Chris Teams of Greenville and rightfielder Jeff Dunbar of Fairview Heights. Additional reserves included Granite City representatives Brett Kiero (outfielder) and Peter Kleeman (pitcher).

Highland ace Barr blanks Tri City in six innings

Post 113's depleted pitching staff victimized as 12-0 Highland win ends six-game victory streak

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Tri City's six-game winning streak came to an end Tuesday night.

Post 113 was thumped 12-0 by Highland in a six-inning game.

"It wasn't a very good showing," Tri City manager Chad Lignoul said. "We had won six games in a row and I think it took something out of us. We just didn't make some plays."

The obvious trouble for Tri City was pitching. After a crowded schedule of back-to-back games and doubleheaders in the last two weeks, Post 113's pitching staff was not well armed. Dustin Murphy started and got chased in the fourth inning. "I was kind of out of pitching," Lignoul said. "I had to use my three regular starters over the weekend. Dustin got into some trouble."

"To make matters worse, they threw their best pitcher against us, Dusty Barr. He's a stocky left-hander who changes speeds well and has a good curve. He's also leading the league in strikeouts. He did a nice job."

Highland scored seven runs in the top of the sixth inning against reliever Jason Accord, one of Tri-City's regular infielders.

"I brought in Jason in the fourth," Lignoul said. "I just didn't have a lot of options. I had to start Scott Schardan (Wednesday night) against East St. Louis—that was a must-win game. Plus, his arm was sore Tuesday night, so I wanted to give him an extra day of rest and not take any chances. Everyone wanted me to put somebody in when Jason started to get in trouble, but we were in a tough spot."

Tri City had just two hits on the night. Matt Pistorius opened the game with a single and Devin Mayes led off the third with another. That was all Post 113 could generate against Barr.

"If you only get two hits, you aren't going to win too many ballgames," Lignoul said. "The game didn't start until 9:15 because Highland played a 15-14 game against Columbia before they played us. They used a bunch of pitchers in that game but saved the best one for us. We've been hitting the ball real well lately,

Pistorius' improvement sparks Tri City

Post 113 first baseman picks up pace in summer

By Rick Broome
Staff writer

Tri City American Legion baseball player Matt Pistorius gets ribbed by his teammates for a propensity to get struck by pitches.

Pistorius is not afraid to take one for the team. He has been hit three times in District 22 games.

But the lanky first baseman for Post 113 is much more just than a sitting duck for opposing hurlers.

Heading into last weekend, Pistorius was batting .387, with seven runs scored and four RBI. On Sunday afternoon, he went 4 for 4 against Cahokia to help Tri City run its winning streak to six games and reach the .500 mark for the first time this summer.

"I think he has been a mainstay in the line-up," Tri City manager Chad Lignoul said. "He has pretty much been in the fifth spot the whole time. He swings the bat nicely and he always has. He has gotten a lot better defensively at first base. I think he is a kid who wants to compete ... a good, hard-nosed kid."

Pistorius, who will be entering his senior year at Granite City High School this fall, gives Post 113 a big lefthanded bat in the middle of the order.

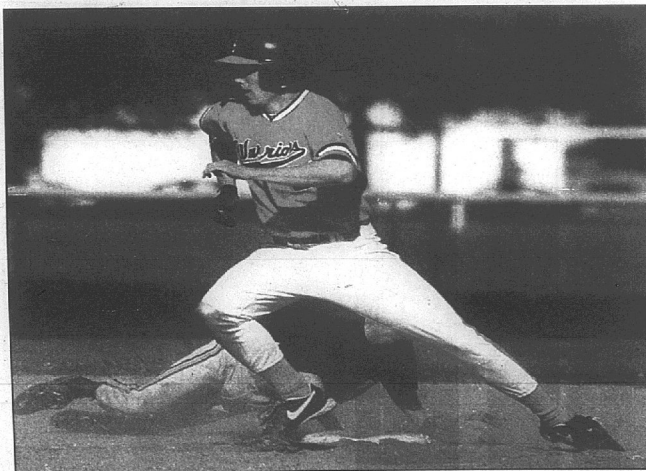

"I have been playing for a really long time," Pistorius said. "Over the summer, I have started lifting weights a lot harder. I take soft toss in the backyard with my dad and I go to the batting cages sometimes."

"I don't try to take too many swings. I think if you swing too much you can develop bad habits. So whenever I feel comfortable with my swing, that's right when I quit. It doesn't matter how many times—I could take 100 swings or 10 swings, but when it feels right I stop."

Pistorius is not a year-round baseball player. He uses his athleticism on the basketball court as well.

"He is an excellent all-around athlete," Lignoul said. "He's a real good basketball player."

"He's just a good kid. He is a good character guy, you

Post 708 bids for playoff bye

With the District 22 American Legion playoffs looming, Troy manager Doug Kreitner obviously did not want to cause a fuss

District 22 coaches from the North Division meet tonight in Collinsville to seed the tournament. He allowed six earned runs on 13 hits, walked five and struck out four.

“We had 14 hits in the first game, and that is definitely a plus. We have only been averaging around four or five hits and one or two runs per game over the past four or five games. When you do that it makes it difficult to win ballgames.” Brian Harshany Steelers manager

Despite splitting the games, Granite City was happy with its offensive display. “The hitting is something that we have been struggling with,” said Harshany, the Steelers manager. “We have really been struggling with hitting and scoring runs. We had 14 hits in the first game, and that is definitely a plus. We have only been averaging around four or five hits and one or two runs per game over the past four or five games. When you do that it makes it difficult to win ballgames. Hopefully this starts to turn it around.” Granite City raised its overall record to 8-8. After a break for the Mon-Clair All-Star game against the St.

Louis County-based Metro Collegians, the Steelers head to Greenville on Sunday to begin the second half of the season. “Hopefully we can just keep this going,” Harshany said. “We have a much different team from the one we had at the beginning of the season, and we are still getting to know each other a little bit and still getting comfortable playing with each other. Hopefully we can just continue to come together as a team and have some success in the second half of the season.”

Troy bids for playoff bye

Collinsville and Highland for the top spot in the North Red division. All three teams had six losses.

“We can’t finish any worse than second,” Kreitner said. “Our regular season is over. Collinsville and Highland have to play each other yet.”

The winner of that game, which was set for Wednesday, was going to help determine the North Red Division leader.

The team that finishes second in the division will play Saturday; the team that finishes third opens the playoffs Friday against East St. Louis.

Kreitner, who has led his team past both Fairview Heights and Edwardsville, hopes the victory gives Post 708 some momentum heading into the post-season tournament.

“When you think of Edwardsville baseball, you think premier power in the Metro East and maybe in the state,” Kreitner said.

“You’ve got to believe this is a big emotional boost.”

Leadoff hitter Trevor Yates provided plenty of offensive boost for Triad. Yates had a perfect day at the plate with four hits, including the game-winning hit.

The game was knotted at 1-1 in the top of the fifth when Yates blasted a two-run home run against Edwardsville’s Chris Johnson.

“It makes a big difference when they come wanting to play,” Kreitner said. “When they do that, we can beat anybody.”

Doug Kreitner
Troy Legion manager

“Trevor Yates hit a home run to spark us and Dave Jablonski pitched real well. That was the key for us.”

Timely hitting also proved important for Post 708 in the sixth inning as Troy tacked on two insurance runs. Nick Rahar and Yates had RBI hits in the frame to give Post 708 a 3-1 cushion.

Edwardsville struck first with its lone run of the game in the bottom of the second. Adam Bernaiz sent a Jablonski pitch to the wall in centerfield for an RBI double.

Following that, Jablonski allowed just five more hits in his complete-game effort.

Troy was not finished with its evening. Post 708 packed up for an 8:30 p.m. contest with East St. Louis, which Troy won 5-2.

In that game, Justin McBride and Todd Baebler each hit grand slams for Troy while Wayne Hubert had the other RBI hit.

Pistorius picks up pace in summer

never have to worry about him getting in trouble. He competes hard. We are a scrappy team and he is a scrappy player. He is just a positive kid to have around and we’re lucky to have kids like that.”

Basketball takes priority for Pistorius, a 6-foot-3 shooting guard, during the fall and winter.

“I don’t play a fall sport,” Pistorius said. “Right now I am just playing baseball mostly and I am playing basketball on the side. I just do this for spring and summer. Then around August or so I stop and I don’t pick up a baseball bat or anything. That’s maybe why I was struggling early in the season.”

But while Pistorius had a sluggish spring for Granite City High School during a 12-21 season, he has picked up the pace this summer.

“I hit about 280 in the high school season, and I wasn’t really happy about that,” Pistorius said. “I just thought, ‘Forget that, I’m just going to play.’ During the high school season, I was really hard on myself. I decided to come out this summer and just have fun and I have been playing a lot better.”

Post 113 has turned its fortunes around and is starting to enjoy the fruition of several entanglements in close games earlier this year. Pistorius likes his battle-hardened team’s chances as they head toward the American Legion playoffs. “I think Chad has really been helping us with that,” Pistorius said. “He doesn’t try to coach and win the games for us. He lets us win the games by ourselves, and I think that’s just going to help us in the future. We are able to take responsibility for our own success.”

“I think we are going to make some noise in the playoffs. We have won six games in a row. We are starting to get better, but we are still playing to the level of our competition. It seems like when we play a lesser team we play down to their level, but then when we play against Belleville or Fairview, we play up. Hopefully, when we play better quality teams in the playoffs, it is just going to make us play better.”

scheduled for tonight. Post 113 was gunning for a win against East St. Louis for one last shot in the arm before the postseason.

“We’ll find everything out tonight,” Lignoul said. “Hopefully, we’ll finish in second place and avoid some of the single-elimination games.”

FROM LAST WEEK

WINSTON CUP SERIES

When Tony Stewart ran out of gas with three laps to go, Jeff Burton stole a rather improbable victory in the Jiffy Lube 300, his fourth of the season and third in a row in this event. Burton needed an owner's provisional to make the field, becoming the first driver to win from so deep in the field since Bill Elliott won the Pepsi Firecracker 400 at Daytona in 1988, also from 38th starting position. Only Johnny Mantz, who won the 1950 Southern 500 after starting 43rd in a field of 75, came from farther back.

CRAFTSMAN TRUCK SERIES

Dennis Setzer became the first Dodge driver ever to win twice in a season, winning at Nashville Speedway USA in a rain-delayed Saturday-night race. Kevin Harvick finished second for the third time this year.

FEUD OF THE WEEK

Jeff Gordon vs. Dale Jarrett

On the final lap at Loudon, last year's point champion and this year's leader engaged in a series of bumps, taking up more than half the way around the track, that gave Gordon a third-place finish ahead of Jarrett and caused a considerable share of bad will.

NASCAR This Week's Monte Dutton gives his opinion: "Everyone is going to get all hot and bothered about this, but face it: Rivalry is what makes this sport thrive. One group that is not complaining is the ticket-sales department at Pocono, site of the next race."

BUSCH GRAND NATIONAL

Race record: Ron Hornaday, 92.402 mph, July 12, 1998
Notable: Jack Sprague won the first two editions of this event before Hornaday. ... Bliss has twice won the pole.

PROFILE

Kevin Lepage

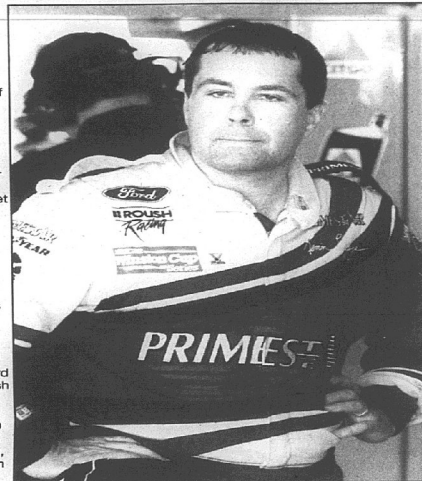

By Monte Dutton
NASCAR This Week
 Quiet and methodical, Kevin Lepage is NASCAR's only driver from the state of Vermont and a member of Jack Roush's five-car team of Ford Taurus drivers.
 In 1996, while driving for David Riddling's Busch Grand National team, Lepage won his first race at Homestead, Fla. In 1997, Lepage competed in his first three Winston Cup races, driving a Chevrolet owned by Joe Falk.
 At Michigan in 1998, Lepage moved to Roush Racing, replacing Ted Musgrave in the No. 16.

AGE: 37
HOMETOWN: Born and raised in Shelburne, Vt., lives in Mooresville, N.C.
WIFE: Donna
CHILDREN: Roxanne, Amadee.

CAR: No. 16 TV Guide Ford Taurus, owned by Jack Roush
RECORD: 48 starts, 0 poles, 0 wins, 0 top-five finishes, 2 top-10s, $1.7 million in career earnings.
FIRSTS: Start (Oct. 5, 1997, at Charlotte), pole (none), win (none)

WHAT'S IT LIKE TO RACE IN NEW ENGLAND? "A lot of fans recognize me from when I started my career in the early '80s at some of the local tracks in Vermont, and the support I've gotten from these fans is a tremendous feeling for me."

ARE THE NEW ENGLAND FANS MORE LOYAL TO THEIR LOCAL DRIVERS? "I think anytime somebody from places like the state of Maine or Vermont can come down and be successful in the sport, and when I say be successful I mean being a Winston Cup driver, it's a big deal. Yeah, we all want to win races, but to be part of an elite group and be one of 43 drivers to start every race, that's a pretty elite group. To be a part of it and representing your home state is just phenomenal. When I go home to Vermont for Kevin Lepage has yet to win in his 48 starts.

Christmas, just walking through the malls or whatever, fans will come up and just ask how you're doing. It's a great, great feeling. I'm proud to be able to have accomplished what I've done. I'm a little disappointed in our performances, but that will come with time."

DOES COMING FROM THE NORTHEAST SET YOU APART? "Right now there are a handful of us from the North. You have Ricky (Craven) and myself. Nadeau is from Connecticut and the Bodines (Geoff and Brett) are from New York (so is Steve Park), so that's five (actually six) of us that are up from this way. If you look through the starting lineup and look at where all these drivers are from, very few are from the Northeast."

Your Turn

Letters From Our Readers

Dear NASCAR This Week,
 I have been involved in auto racing since before (World War II). I am totally aware race-car drivers are not too bright at times, but... Please teach them another word to express enthusiasm besides AWESOME!!! The public is about to throw up.
 Suggestion: How about five bonus points to the winning driver if he can come up with a new word to express how thrilling the car was, another five bonus points if he can express how efficient his crew was and another five bonus points if he can use a word that has not been used to express how, stunning the (trophy girl) is.
 Barney Mazzone
 Carrollton, Ga.

We'll pass along your remarks.

Dear NASCAR This Week,
 With past race winners eligible for the recent running of The Winston, why were Ken Schrader, Derricki Cope, Jimmy Spencer and Morgan Shepherd excluded?
 Toby Dick
 Symsonia, Ky.

According to the event's fact sheet, eligibility (via that category) is open to "drivers and car owners who have won races in the preceding and current years." Spencer's most recent victory was in 1994. Shepherd's in 1993. Schrader's in 1991 and Cope's in 1990. The field must consist of 20 cars, and enough drivers to fill the field are added based on their most recent victories, a provision that this year brought in Ernie Irvan (1997), Sterling Marlin (1996), Kyle Petty (1995) and Ward Burton (1995). Bill Elliott and Darrell Waltrip made it because they were ex-Winston Cup champions, and Michael Waltrip and Geoff Bodine made the race because they were former winners of The Winston.

Trackside Trivia

- Who said, "Gentlemen, start your engines," before the first Las Vegas 400?
- When Joe Gibbs debuted his Winston Cup team in 1992, what company sponsored his car and who was the driver?

1. Singer Wayne Newton; 2. Dale Jarrett drove the Interstate Batteries Chevrolet.

Who's Hot... Who's Not

- HOT: Jeff Burton, now tied for most victories with four.
- NOT: Ted Musgrave, one top-10 finish all year.

Fan Tips

■ Morgan McClure Motorsports has scheduled an open house on July 17 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. at the team's state-of-the-art race shop in Abingdon, Va. Team driver Bobby Hamilton will be signing autographs from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. A fee of $1 per person at the gate will be donated to local police, and fire, and children under 12 are free. Take exit 22 off Interstate 81 to the shop.

Booklink is beginning again. Churches may begin taking used literature to the Baptist Center. This program helps provide seminary students, small churches and new work with literature and books to use.

The first MCBA Wacky Olympics was held June 26 at the Baptist Center Pavilion. Approximately 100 people attended representing six churches.

Rain didn't dampen the spirit for fun and fellowship. All the games were played in the rain and everyone enjoyed the fun. The Association supplied the hot dogs and hamburgers and others supplied the side dishes.

The purpose of a Wacky Olympics was to provide a time when members from various churches could get together and get acquainted with others in a relaxed atmosphere, with events for all ages with fun and laughter and competition beginning on equal ground.

Hopefully, this was the beginning of an annual association-wide fellowship day.

Rick McGee and Champions for Christ will be in concert at 9:30 a.m. Sunday at Pontoon Beach Church of Christ, 4039 Pontoon Road.

At 7 p.m. Bruce Graff will be the guest speaker of the evening and will be speaking about his trip to Haiti.

Matt Salzman was honored on June 26 at a birthday and going-away party. His mother, Angel Finck hosted the barbecue with him of him leaving on June 29 for basic training in New Jersey in the Coast Guard.

He will return later and finish his last year of high school and then enter the Coast Guard.

Family members took covered dishes, and those enjoying the pot-luck meal were Angel Finck and daughter, Kaitlyn; Charlie Finck; Paul Salzman, wife Tammy and daughter, Brandy and Cord Nancy; Kim Dye; John and Cindy Stordahl; Billy Fior; Tina Maloney; Tom Coleman; John Kovce; Tim Knowlton; and Betty and Gene Floshe.

Maxine Green covers the social scene for the Granite City Press-Record. If you have an item for this column, please contact Maxine at 831-6256.

Anniversaries celebrated in June were Nellie and John Forrest, married 43 years; and Irene and Joe Hauptman, married 94 years.

President Siebert reported receiving a thank-you card from Lou Shipley, the Holy Family grade school recipient of a scholarship to Marquette High School in Appleton, Wis. The scholarship was from the Young at Heart.

Margaret Ferro, member of the Nominating Committee, reported the new slate of officers for 1999-2000. They are: President, Cleola Siebert; Vice President, Marilyn Schooley; Recording Secretary, Cleo Schnefke; Treasurer, Goldie Rozyczko; and Corresponding Secretary, Louise Kovar. Warren Bequette made a motion that nominations be closed from the floor and the candidates be elected by acclamation.

Attendance prizes were won by Lucille Mossa, Cathy Wiese, Eric Mooshegan, Rose Schmitt, Mattie Sotiroff, Al Mossa, Katherine Sawicki and Marie Stanek.

Following refreshments of ice cream sundaes, the remainder of the evening was spent playing bingo.

SIBA bestows Merit Award to L. Wolf Co.

The Southern Illinois Builders Association (SIBA) recently bestowed its Merit Award to member firm L. Wolf Company of Granite City. The award signifies that L. Wolf Company has achieved no accidents during 1998. This company also received a Certificate of Commendation for Safety Excellence from the AGC of America.

The SIBA, in conjunction with its not-for-profit industry fund, the Southern Illinois Construction Advancement Program (SICAP), has been in the forefront of construction safety and health efforts for six decades. Through SIBA and SICAP sponsored safety seminars, on-site training, extensive safety video library, materials and expertise, contractors like L. Wolf Company have been able to achieve excellent safety records. This, in turn, helps make these companies more competitive by lowering their costs.

SIBA is a trade association of contractors representing 500 plus commercial and industrial building, highway and utility construction contractors throughout Southern Illinois.

SICAP is an industry fund powered by employer contributions based upon hours worked by carpenters.

GC Park District sponsors music trip

The Granite City Park District will sponsor a one-day trip to historic Steelville, Mo., for a music show at the Meramec Music Theatre Aug. 7.

The trip will go on sale at 8 a.m. Wednesday at the Wilson Park Ice Rink. The cost of the trip is $39 per person and includes the cost of motorcoach transportation, lunch and the show. Forty-six tickets are available for sale for the show, featuring country, gospel, pop, golden oldies, bluegrass music and comedy. They advertise the show as having "all the fun of a Branson show without the traffic."

The motorcoach will leave the Wilson Park Ice Rink at 8:30 a.m. on the day of the trip and arrive in Cuba, Mo., in time for lunch at the Come and Get It Buffet, where the menu will consist of several meats, many vegetables and salads, dessert and drink. After lunch, the group will travel to Steelville, where there should be time for browsing the antique and specialty shops before the two-hour show. Enroute home, a stop will be made at either a fast-food restaurant or an ice cream specialty store. The arrival back at Wilson Park should be approximately 8 p.m.

Anyone needing to be picked up will be able to make a phone call from the coach enroute home to verify the time of arrival for the party meeting them.

As always, Granite City Park District residents have priority for the trip; proof of residency must be presented for each person at the time of registration unless husband and wife, with non-residents being placed on a waiting list and notified one week later of any availability. One person can sign up four people.

If more information is needed, please contact Sue Champion at 451-1212 or the Wilson Park Office at 577-3059.

Social Notes

Church Women United

Burdine Holtzschler prepared a devotion from the booklet Guidesposts for the Church Women United monthly meeting, held June 24 at Nameoki United Methodist Church.

President Millie Clements announced that Mae Lee and Ollie Derr provided the refreshments. She also introduced a guest, Billie Houba.

The following announcements were made: An accompanist is needed for the CWU choir; tutors are needed in the fall at all local schools; we will continue the boycott of Mt. Olive pickles; the CWU breakfast planned for July 31 at Brenda's Restaurant has been cancelled; and a new companion is needed for the annual fund-raiser, "Music, Music."

The back-to-school program sponsored by Community Care will be held on Aug. 14, 15 and 17; a roadblock to see donations will be held on Aug. 7; and a talent show, also sponsored by Community Care, will be held at Granite City High School on Aug. 20.

Community Care recently bought the Patio Restaurant and is now serving breakfast and lunch.

A new name for the local unit of Church Women United was chosen. It will be called the Quad-City Unit Southwest. The area institute will be held Sept. 29 at St. John United Church of Christ in Collinsville. The regional event will be held Oct. 29 to 31 at Grand Rapids, Mich. The Illinois state assembly will be held April 28 and 29 in Springfield.

CWU voted to give $50 to the Good Samaritan House to purchase diapers. Members present brought canned goods for The Salvation Army. Community Care Center and Phoenix Crisis Center. The were asked to keep bringing samples of cosmetics, paper-bound Bibles and paper-bound dictionaries for the women in prison at Dwight.

On Aug. 24, a tour will be offered to visit the program called Hope for the Children near Champaign. It is a foster-care program. The registration fee is $25, which includes transportation. There will be no meeting in July. The next CWU meeting will be held Aug. 26 at Nameoki United Methodist Church.

Granite City AMVETS

Granite City AMVETS Post 51 and its auxiliary held its annual installation dinner June 5 at the post home.

Colors were posted prior to the ceremony by Charles Wilkins; a prayer was offered by auxiliary chaplain Gerri Reecer.

The new post officers were installed by Auxiliary Officer Leo Clements, the commander of Post 345.

New officers are: Commander, Pam Falk; First Vice Commander, Herold Seibert; Second Vice Commander and Adjutant, David Duval; Third Vice Commander, Bert Jones; Judge Advocate, Phil Manninger; Finance Officer,

Gerald Liebold; Provost

Marshal, Leo Clements; Service Officer, Bill Schenck; Chaplain, Charles Wilkins; Membership, Bill Miller; PRO Historian, Bill Hamilton.

The auxiliary installing officer was Catherine Swinnen, a VAVS representative to Marion VA hospital from Mt. Vernon. Visiting the ceremony was Elsie Fierlage, state junior AMVET coordinator from Mt. Vernon.

New auxiliary officers are: President, Betty Clements; First Vice President and Liaison, Betty Wilkins; Second Vice President, Bonnie Liebold; Third Vice President and PRO Historian, Elhel Weilbacher; Secretary, Sharon Tackett; Treasurer, Jackie Rainwater; Sgt. at Arms, Sheila Brownlee; Chaplain, Gerri Reecer; Parliamentarian, Shirley Schenck; Hospital, Bert Manninger; Americanism, Barbara Copeland; Ways and Means, Carol Jarrett.

Bunco Club

Dena Pierce hosted the June meeting of the Granite City Bunco Club.

First-place winner for the evening was Jana Moran; second place went to Lesa Ingram; and third place went to Christie Conard. Sue Lehne was the low-man winner and Mary Martinez won most snake eyes with a new club record of 11. Other club members are Kathy Pauline, Debbie Thomason, Mary Benko, Christy Hagnauer, Margie Knight, Ted Short, Brenda Hadley and Kim Werner. Sue Lehne will host the July meeting.

Central Christian

The young people of Central Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) in Granite City led the morning worship service at the church May 2.

Lesley Rivenburgh led the Worship Litany at the beginning of the service. Willi Connolly, Matthew Davis and Ashley and Lesley Rivenburgh took up the offering.

Special music was presented by Stephanie and Jeffrey Huff and Lesley Rivenburgh on the clarinet and Willi Connolly on the bassoon and Matthew Davis on the guitar. The Choir Director, Nancy Connolly, accompanied them with the flute. The hymn they played was "Amazing Grace." The guitarist played the hymn first, followed by the woodwinds.

The Scriptures were read by Stephanie Huff, Matthew Davis, Ashley Rivenburgh and Willi Connolly prepared and presented the sermon.

Omicron Master

The Illinois Omicron Master Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi celebrated Founder's Day in the home of Imogene Forrest April 29.

The theme, "Dust Into Stardust," was denoted by candles in star-studded holder on the dinner table. Following a three-course dinner, Joyce Alexander, as officiant, introduced the program. All members participated in the opening ritual, with the message from Bill Ross delivered by Imogene Forrest.

Central Christian Women's Fellowship holds night out

It is a tradition of the Christian Women's Fellowship of Central Christian Church (Disciples of Christ) of Granite City to invite the women and girls of the church and their guests to Ladies Night Out in May of each year.

Previously, this gathering was known as the Mother-Daughter Banquet. It is a time for fellowship, dinner and entertainment. The men of the church, plus other men friends, serve the dinner to the ladies and girls. This year's dinner consisted of fried and baked chicken.

Summer at the park

By Michael Heil
Staff writer

Swimming, dodge and kick ball and numerous outdoor field trips. Those are several activities the Granite City Park District is offering children ages 7 through 12 as part of its summer camp program. "I just like just about everything. I can't decide what I like the most," said 12-year-old Molly Caldera.

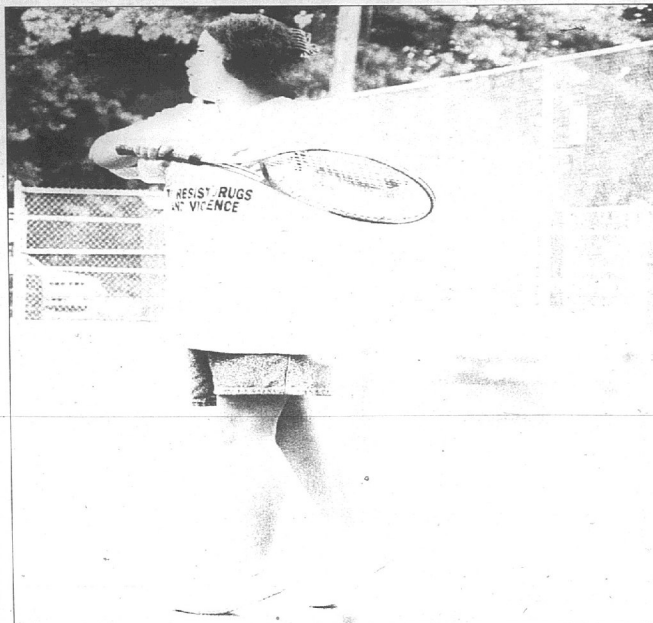

John Cadera, her 12-year-old brother, added, "We joined this year because our cousin told us how neat it was." The fun-filled, six-week camp began in June. It will continue until the end of July. About 250 energetic youngsters are enrolled. They are split into three groups, ages 7 and 8, 9 and 10 and 11 and 12. Some of their afternoons are spent playing baseball or soccer or, during lunch time, relaxing under a tree, with a snack in hand as the sun gives them all the warmth and comfort they need on a sunny summer day.

Justin Williamson, 18, the spirited assistant camp director, said he and the camp counselors enjoy working with the kids because of their spontaneity. "They're always laughing and smiling or doing something silly without a care in the world," he said. "During the activities sometimes we have more fun than they do."

Whatever activities the children enjoy will come to an end July 23, the final day of camp. As part of the camp's grand finale, the youngsters will take part in a barbecue and a talent show.

"They'll think up songs they can lip-sing to and dance to," said Williamson. "It's always a lot of fun."

Above, Wilson park was the place to be on an unseasonably cool Monday afternoon.

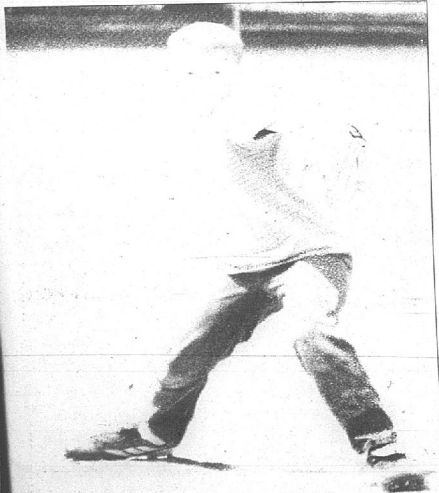

Top right, Raquel Velez works on her return shot during a tennis lesson at the park district summer camp.

Bottom left, Aaron Robbins, 12, shows off his skills at shortstop position during a baseball drill at the park district summer camp.

Bicycle race slated for Saturday

Unique Tour de Donut covers 30-mile route

By Scott Cousins
Staff writer

For some it is the thrill of the ride, for others, the lure of the glaze.

For whatever the reason, more than 300 bicyclists will gather at Staunton High School Saturday for the 11th annual Tour de Donut, known as the most unusual bicycle race in the St. Louis area.

The 30-mile race is a spoof of the annual Tour de France, but with an added twist.

Participants have two donut stops where they have 10 minutes to eat as many donuts as possible.

For each donut eaten, their overall road time is reduced by 5 minutes.

Dale Walker, a volunteer worker for this year's race, said while some go for the fastest actual time, others eat their way to success.

"There are all kinds of theories," he said. "Some people come out and have fun and don't eat any donuts, others really get into the eating."

"A lot of people would be sitting around their breakfast table saying 'Donuts, I can eat a lot of those,'" he added. "But when you're out there riding your bike, it becomes a little bit of a challenge."

He noted the donuts are "not the small light ones."

Walker said the record number of donuts eaten was 27.

"The first year I did it, I did six, and I went down every year after that," he said.

"There are all sorts of philosophies," Walker added.

"I've seen some people who washed the glaze off and crush them into a little hard balls and eat them."

The race was the brainchild of Joe Booth of Alton. This year the Boeing Employees Bicycle Club is sponsoring the race, along with Jubels Bakery, The Cyclery, Pedal Shop and Eddie's Bike Shop.

The Tour de Donut will begin and end at Staunton High School, located off Interstate 55 at exit 41 in Staunton, Ill.

'Jubilee 2000' opens Friday at Shrine

By Christopher England
Staff writer

Musical looks at Christian journey

The stage of the amphitheater is dark, the Shrine grounds are quiet, and the staff of Our Lady of the Snows is excitedly anticipating the arrival of a troupe of players. These actors and actresses are ready to sing the gospel of Jesus Christ, and what the Lord means to the next millennium, into the hearts of its audience.

The award-winning musical celebration, "Jubilee 2000," arrives at Our Lady of the Snows Shrine at 8 p.m. on Friday and runs through Sunday. The celebration will take place in the amphitheater and tickets are available by calling 397-6700 or 314/241-3400 or by visiting the Shrine. Several ticket options are available.

"Jubilee 2000" brings to the stage the spectacular 2000-year journey of Christian people. The musical reflects on saints and sinners, voices and visions, stories and struggles of humanity in search for spirituality.

The musical was written by a husband-and-wife team, Tim and Julie Smith, and explores the concept that Jesus Christ is the "door" to the next millennium. The play reflects on eras past and uses the lyrics and dialogue to capture the powerful message of the gospels.

"I've heard so many good things about this play," said Tom Mulhall, marketing manager for Our Lady of the Snows Shrine. "I listened to a taped version and was in awe of its musical message."

According to Mulhall, this is the Shrine's first professional theater company to visit and put on a production in the outdoor amphitheater.

"Certainly by attempting a new adventure like this, we have taken on more production costs," Mulhall said. "But this production is worth it, and I think the audiences will appreciate this as well."

The play consists of 65 members and opened in 1997 to packed houses and has never looked back since. The troupe has traveled around the country and has usually sold out wherever they perform. The production could be compared to the play "Godspell" but visualized and heard in a more contemporary light, says Mulhall.

"I guess you could describe it as nontraditional, but the focus is never lost or tainted," he said.

The millennium offers a new challenge for the church, and Pope John Paul II has suggested that the church needs a more contemporary way of expressing the spiritual and moral beliefs the church has held for over 2000 years.

"This play is a wonderful, family-oriented event which will touch the hearts of those who see it," said Mulhall. "What other way can you spend quality time, relay a beautiful message of hope and faith and have fun?"

Exhibit displays 'Images of Mary'

41 artists will display their works at the Shrine

By Christopher England
Staff writer

The vision of the Virgin Mary has evoked emotions of onlookers for thousands of years. Hundreds of thousands of pieces of art have depicted the Blessed Mother of Jesus Christ in many different poses and images.

Fifty-seven of these will be displayed in an exhibit called "Images of Mary, Contemporary Variations," in the church overflow area of the Shrine of Our Lady of the Snows for five weeks beginning July 28.

The exhibit is free and open to the public. Hours are from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. The exhibit closes Sept. 1.

The artists are extremely proud to be associated with the Shrine of Our Lady of the

"This art is very cutting edge, but remains tasteful and truthful to the church doctrine."

Jo Kathmann

Snows, which appeared nationally in Life magazine a few years ago.

The University of Dayton in Ohio, a leading campus in Marianological research, searched for the artists by the request of the Shrine staff.

This art exhibit was chosen by a panel of judges who saw material from more than 3,000 artists all over the world.

Fifty-seven pieces by 41 artists were chosen to display the Virgin Mother in many different, contemporary variations.

Eight of the pieces are sculptures.

One of the sculptures depicts Mary as a pregnant mother. The artist has been identified as saying they wished to compare Mary's virgin birth with the plight of today's single motherhood.

This contemporary view of Marian art also depicts 49 paintings of various media. One painting is displayed on the front of a clothes iron.

The artist found the iron in a trash heap and decided to comment on the resurgence in visions of Mary by depicting her that way.

"This art is very cutting edge, but remains tasteful and truthful to the church doctrine," said Jo Kathmann.

The Catholic Church has reached a resurgence in Mass attendance and church events since Pope John Paul II visited St. Louis in January, Kathmann believes.

"People are searching again, the millennium is around the corner and people want more positive ideas and beliefs to be followed," she said.

"This is certainly one way of displaying the perception of faith and spirituality, and to share those perceptions with everyone."

'Arlington Road'

intriguing, illogical

Thriller generates suspense

By Brian Kaller
Staff writer

The good news is that "Arlington Road" is one of the few thrillers to generate genuine suspense, or to take an interesting perspective of current issues, or to risk an uncommercial ending.

If only the plot made a bit of sense.

MOVIE REVIEW

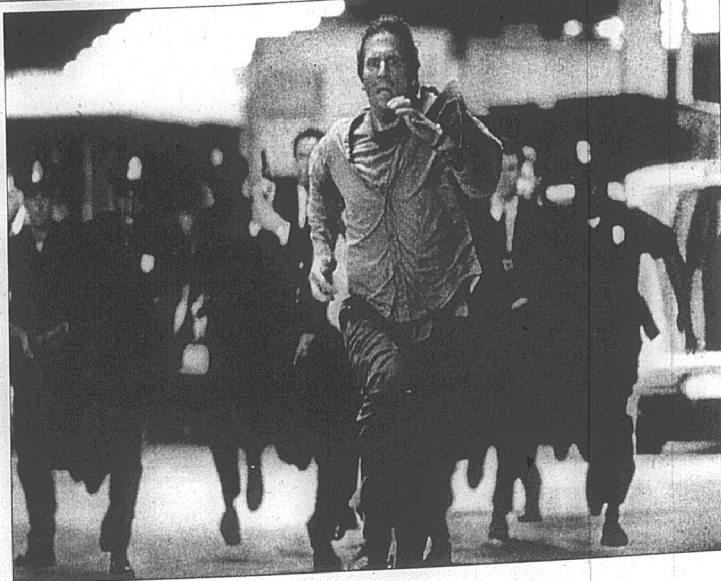

In the opening scenes, a young boy staggers down a suburban street leaving a trail of blood. A neighbor's car screeches to a halt in front of him, and the frantic driver, Michael Faraday (Jeff Bridges), pulls him in and rushes him to the hospital.

As Faraday waits outside the emergency room, he meets the boy's grateful parents, Oliver and Cheryl Lang (Tim Robbins and Joan Cusack). The Langs explain that they have just moved across the street from Faraday, and that their son burned himself playing with fireworks. Faraday is himself a widower with a son the same age, and the Langs invite him and his son to their home.

Faraday is a criminology professor who specializes in militia and terrorist groups. His late wife was an FBI agent who was killed in a terrorist bombing of a government building, which the movie coyly refers to as the "St. Louis bombing." (Why don't they just come out and say Oklahoma City?)

As Faraday and the Langs grow closer, he becomes suspicious of his new neighbors. Oliver says he designs shopping malls, but the blueprints on his desk seem to be of government buildings. He was in St. Louis at the time of the bombing. The college Oliver claims as his alma mater has no record of him. Finally, Faraday searches for information in old newspaper databases, and finds Lang was arrested when he was a teenager ... for trying to smuggle a pipe bomb into a government office.

The filmmakers deal with the intriguing idea that right-wing militias are more powerful and common in America than we realize, and that their ascendance is being ignored. The message is that we are too quick to explain domestic terrorist acts with easy answers and lone scapegoats, and to consider their behavior aberrations rather than pieces of a larger movement. Of course, one can argue that the film goes the other direction into conspiracy theory, as well as exploiting tragedies like Oklahoma City for sensationalism. "Arlington Road" also generates real tension and surprising twists as it moves toward its admirably unconventional ending. Unfortunately, no amount of interesting ideas and good intentions can make up for the gaping holes in the plot.

Summer movie season continues to sizzle

Comedy, romance, animation are all scoring big with viewing public

Washington may profess not to like all the violence it sees coming out of Hollywood. But moviegoers sure do.

The Fourth of July weekend marked the midpoint of the summer movie season, and the box office is sizzling in the United States — up 28 percent over last season with more than $1 billion in ticket sales since May.

The summer has jolted the industry out of its post-"Titanic" doldrums. Business was down 2 percent before "Star Wars: Episode I — The Phantom Menace" blasted off May 19; for the year, it's now up 5 percent, putting 1999 on a pace to top 1998, itself a record year.

While the Force was expected to be a force, the summer has offered some surprises. Comedy scored big. So did romance and animation. And not too many people had to die.

Lawmakers feeling angry — or opportunistic — after the Colorado school shootings can rest easy. Aside from some lightsaber jolts in "The Phantom Menace," high-tech deaths in "Matrix," the bug feasts in "The Mummy," the nasty scenes in "The General's Daughter" and the occasional off-screen death in "Tarzan," the only violence that has resonated with audiences this summer is the violence being done to good taste.

Meanwhile, some studios avoided getting burned by putting some distance between their films and "Star Wars." Movies that normally would have been pegged for the summer hit theaters in the spring instead, to avoid being swamped by the blockbuster.

"The Mummy," for example, was released May 7

— almost two weeks before "Star Wars" — and has grossed $146 million.

"Entrapment" was rushed out even earlier, April 30, and has done a respectable $84 million in business.

In a sign of another trend — the unusual staying power of films this year — both movies remain in wide release.

So go the summer trends:
IT'S GOOD TO HAVE
'STAR WARS' BACK
— SORT OF

Only George Lucas could disappoint critics, alienate theater operators and irritate hard-core fans by creating the most grating character since Barney — and still reap an explosive box office.

"The Phantom Menace" collected $352 million going into the July 4 weekend, and it's still cruising at light speed. Last weekend, in its sixth week in release, ticket sales were down only 25 percent.

"The fear that somehow 'Star Wars' would steamroll over everybody really didn't come to pass," said Jeff Blake, president of worldwide distribution for Sony's film arm. "Not only did 'Star Wars' get what they figured to get, everybody else is exceeding their expectations as well."

To wit, Sony's own "Big Daddy," The Adam Sandler picture, with some serious overlap in audience demographics with "Star Wars," opened to a stunning $41.5 million, despite generally unfavorable reviews.

"Big Daddy" would have earned the title of the top-opening comedy of the year had "Austin Powers: The Spy Who Shagged Me" not opened to an even more stunning $54 million three weeks earlier.

Both shared the young, male-heavy "Star Wars" audience, and both followed a trail blazed by last summer's "There's Something About Mary," showing that modestly budgeted comedies that push the boundaries of taste can do very good business.

NOT ALL APE MEN ARE CREATED EQUAL
True, "Tarzan" has swung to the tune of $77.6 million — and counting — and the soundtrack with Phil Collins is soaring atop the charts, but Disney's novel summer strategy of releasing movies about men who have a close relationship to gorillas is batting only .500.

"Instinct," with Anthony Hopkins as a sort of Hannibal the Animal (he lives with the apes), and Cuba Gooding Jr. as his shrink, is one of the summer's few flops.

So, too, is "The Love Letter," a romance released against "The Phantom Menace" in what proved to be a futile attempt at counterprogramming.

Not that all love was lost at the box office. "Notting Hill," dished up just a week after "The Love Letter," enchanted audiences. The movie with

Auditions set for play on Friday

Kitchen Table Theater plans production

By Curtiss Hartley
Staff writer

Young thespians are invited to audition for this summer's production of the Kitchen Table Theater in Edwardsville from 10 a.m. to noon Friday.

The auditions will be held at the bandstand next to the Edwardsville Public Library.

Elizabeth Bottje, 18, is the founder and director for the not-for-profit group. "I think we need about 15 people," she said. "They don't have to have anything memorized. It's just a cold reading, and it gives us a chance to see little bits of the plays we've chosen."

This year, the group will perform six one-act plays. "They're really funny,"

Bottje said. "They're not elaborate, so we won't need a lot of rehearsals."

Rehearsals will be daily from 9 a.m. to noon, beginning July 17. The performances will be at the bandstand at 7 p.m. July 27 and 28.

Bottje said the group organized two years ago when she about five friends sat around her kitchen table discussing the idea. Originally, they did children's plays.

"We did 'The Half-Pint Cowboy,' and 'Three Busy Barbers,' the first year. It really turned out well, and we had a lot of fun," she said.

She said it was a lot of work to bring it all together. "My step-father, Jan Vest, gave us the money for costumes and stuff, and said the bandstand looked like a good place to meet."

Her group rehearsed at her church that first year, and Bottje gathered resources to help with the production.

She enlisted the help of the theater coach at the High School, Kate Motley, for support. Bottje also called on the set crew from the school, headed by Brad Lewis.

"They're amazing. They do some smaller things for us at the bandstand that are just great," she said.

Cost for the theater class will be $50, and will include a snack. The class will be from 9:30 to 11 a.m., and will meet at the band stand in City Park next to the Public Library. For more information, parents can call Bottje at 659-0442.

Horoscope

Thursday, July 15
TODAY'S BIRTHDAY: In the year ahead there's a good chance you could get opportunities to associate with some pretty influential people, but don't forsake old acquaintances for them.

CANCER (June 21-July 22)
 To be on the safe side today, better strap on a life jacket. Should you get in hot water, pals won't be around to bail you out.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you succumb to comparing your status with that of others in better positions, that little green-eyed monster could rear its ugly head. Brush him off the moment he appears.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) In your haste to get things done today, you could become impulsive or impatient when on the job. When that happens, mistakes are inevitable.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Persons who have more money than you could influence you toward being extravagant if you allow them.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's always good to weigh and balance your actions before proceeding, but not to the point to where it leads to indecisiveness, especially in career matters.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't let it upset you today if you cannot do all that you would like to in helping others. Accomplish what you can, and call it a day.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Although you normally can tolerate or at least cope with a demanding friend, you might reach the breaking point today if his or her ultimatums get out of hand.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It's important to do your best at all times, especially when in competitive situations. If you become too complacent today, you'll allow the opposition to sail right past you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Being argumentative usually ends up in futile debates, but today this behavior could yield you more hostility or animosity than you bargain for.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) When it comes to getting involved in any joint effort today, don't allow your head to get lost in the clouds.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Should your judgment be erroneous today, you might have to go back and unwind a bad situation. Be prepared to have in your feet what you don't have in your head.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) No matter how pretty the day, forgo playing hooky on responsibilities. Get on them before the guy who signs your paycheck gets on you.

Disney still turning out great fare

Movies appeal to adults as well as children

Trivia

Kevin Carbery

By Kevin Carbery
Staff writer

For many of us, our first experience at going to a movie theater involved seeing a Walt Disney film.

While the pictures are geared to kids, they often are entertaining enough to keep an adult's attention.

To this day, I still don't mind hitting Disney flicks with my nieces and nephews. Recently, I took them to see "Tarzan," a pretty good Disney effort with lively animation. The kids loved it and I enjoyed it as well.

When I was growing up in the '60s, my favorite film released by the studio during those years was probably "The Jungle Book." Like many Disney efforts, it had humor, suspense and a few catchy tunes. I thought Baloo and King Louie were great.

As it has been Disney's policy to re-release its movies every few years, new generations have been able to experience the company's films the same way youngsters did when they debuted. My parents took me and my sister to see "Peter Pan," "Snow White," "Song of the South" and the other Disney classics whenever they would be brought out of mothballs and shown to the public.

Although the company went through a relatively dry spell of hit movies in the '70s and much of the '80s, it came back in a big way with "Who Framed Roger Rabbit" and "The Little Mermaid" at the end of the latter decade. I particularly enjoyed "Who Framed Roger Rabbit," a clever splicing of animation and live action.

Disney still turning out good movies

Disney has had a string of hits since then, including such animated favorites as "Beauty and the Beast," "Aladdin" and "The Lion King."

"Tarzan" is raking in money this summer as one of the best-attended films.

The studio is making a habit of producing a blockbuster for every holiday season and for each summer.

This week's trivia quiz is on the subject of animated films from the Disney company.

1. What is the name of the whale that swallows Gepetto in "Pinocchio"?

2. What is Aladdin's first wish in "Aladdin"?

3. Which of the seven dwarfs wears glasses in "Snow White and the Seven Dwarfs"?

4. What is the name of the boy raised by animals in "The Jungle Book"?

5. Which Disney film was the first animated flick ever to be nominated for an Academy Award in the Best Picture category?

6. What tune from "Pocahontas" won the Academy Award for Best Song?

7. What is the name of Bambi's rabbit friend in "Bambi"?

8. What tune from "The Little Mermaid" won the Academy Award for Best Song?

9. Which Disney film came out first among "Lady and the Tramp," "Cinderella" and "Peter Pan"?

10. Who supplies the voice of Esmeralda in "The Hunchback of Notre Dame"?

ANSWERS: 1. Monstro. 2. To be a prince. 3. Doc. 4. Mowgli. 5. "Beauty and the Beast," in 1991. 6. "Colors of the Wind," in 1995. 7. Thumper. 8. "Under the Sea," in 1989. 9. "Cinderella," which was released in 1950. "Peter Pan" came out in 1953 and "Lady and the Tramp" debuted in 1955. 10. Demi Moore.

I will host the following upcoming trivia events: St. Louis Community College at Meramec Alumni Association Trivia on Saturday, Oct. 2, call 984-7551.

Kevin Carbery can be heard as a regular on "The Entertainment and Trivia Show" at 10 p.m. Sundays on KMOX Radio (1120 AM).

Summer films have sizzled through 1999

Julia Roberts and Hugh Grant has grossed nearly $90 million and shows great staying power.

And while science fiction clicked with fans in "The Phantom Menace" and "The Matrix," it couldn't save "The Thirteenth Floor."

THE MULTIPLEX OFFERS MULTIPLE BENEFITS

The biggest behind-the-scenes story in Hollywood is the building boom in the theater business. The country has gone from about 24,000 screens to 34,000 screens in the last decade, and theaters have become more accommodating. The seats are more comfortable, the selection is higher and theater owners can quickly shuffle movies from one auditorium to another to keep lines down.

This increase in screens has made it possible this summer for so many movies to make so much money on one weekend. "Austin 2" is playing in 3,314 theaters — in many cases on multiple screens — a record number, more even than last year's "Godzilla."

Earlier in June, three movies — "Tarzan," "The General's Daughter" and "Austin 2" — each grossed more than $20 million, the first time anybody in Hollywood could remember a triple-$20 million weekend.

The large number of screens also meant Lucas' demands for the best screens in the best theaters — a source of some grumbling among theater owners at first — never created the problems many had feared. The studio worked with the theaters and the theaters found the floor space, and nobody was left too unhappy.

Another beneficiary are some of the summer art films. "Tea With Mussolini" ($9.7 million) and "An Ideal Husband" ($1.4 million) are finding their ways into suburban multiplexes, where in another era they may have only been shown in single-screen specialty houses.

And like last year, with "Saving Private Ryan," there's a warm weather rarity: a summer movie with Academy Award potential. Stanley Kubrick's final film, "Eyes Wide Shut," opens Friday.

'Red Violin' blends storytelling, special effects

The search for perfection is a recurring theme in "The Red Violin," and it is not extravagant to say that this remarkable movie comes close to achieving that goal.

MOVIE REVIEW

MOVIE REVIEW

It is a film that touches all of the senses — eyes, ears, mind and heart — with the blending of evocative storytelling and symphonic music that is a rare treat in this summer of the big-budget blitzkrieg of special effects.

"The Red Violin" is clearly a labor of love and a passion for all involved making this film for an astonishingly low $9 million. The Canadian-Italian co-production takes viewers on a journey across five countries and three centuries as it tells the imagined story of a very special violin as it transforms the lives of its owners.

At times, "The Red Violin" feels like five movies in five languages. But the clever plotting of the story and the mystery that is solved only in the final frames bring all of them together in a satisfying and surprising climax. Subtitles for all but the English-language sections keep the authenticity of each locale.

The only "stars" likely to be recognized by American audiences are Samuel L. Jackson as a violin expert who becomes enamored of the legendary instrument and Greta Scacchi as the romance writer and muse to an unconventional violinist (Jason Flemyng) in 19th-century England. But all of the performances are expert

The story, written by Canadian director Francois Girard and Don McKellar, begins in 17th-century Italy where a noted violin maker, Nicolo Bussotti (Carlo Cecchi), creates his masterpiece, a perfect violin intended as a gift for his unborn son. But the future of the baby and of Bussotti's beautiful wife (Irene Graziosi) are shadowed by tragedy predicted by a fortune teller (Anita Laurenzi) whose readings of tarot cards are a unifying thread of the movie.

With the death of Bussotti's dream, the Red Violin, so named for its unique varnish color, begins its journey across continents, showing up first in Vienna at a monastery where monks train orphan boys as violinists. There, it is assigned to an angelic 6-year-old prodigy, Kaspar Weiss, portrayed by real-life violin prodigy, Christoph Koncz. The small boy turns out to be a genius and is adopted by a French music master, providing another short film-within-a-film.

Eventually, the violin falls into the hands of Gypsies who take it to England where it inspires the virile virtuoso Frederick Pope (Fleming). It then makes its way to Shanghai and becomes a political hot potato in China's cultural evolution.

Each story allows for violin solos, performed by acclaimed musician Joshua Bell. The London Philharmonic Orchestra, conducted by Esa-Pekka Salonen, plays John Corigliano's haunting score for the movie.

The violin's ultimate arrival at a prestigious auction house in present-day Montreal is telegraphed throughout the film as we see a high-stakes auction in repeated flashbacks. In yet another subplot, Jackson, in a virtuoso performance of his own, is the violin expert brought in to authenticate the Red Violin. When he concludes that he has found perfection and unravels the violin's shocking mystery through use of computers and DNA testing, he faces an ethical crisis that provides the film's grand finale.

Girard first drew attention last year with his "Thirty-Two Short Films About Glenn Gould." His early background was in filming architecture, dance and music, which explains the exquisite look and sound of this movie.

Production designer Francois Seguin, photography director Alain Dostie and costume designer Renee April have crafted scenes that are vivid paintings of each era.

"The Red Violin" was produced by Niv Fichman and is being released by New Line International Releasing, Channel Four films and Telefilm Canada. Released without a rating, this movie has brief nudity, a whimsical sex scene and little violence. A bit too sophisticated for young children. Running time: 126 minutes.

'Tea With Mussolini' offers charming if rambling story

"Tea With Mussolini" is a sweet and lovely film, a tale told with warm nostalgia, hampered only by its lack of focus and rambling story.

The film centers around an ensemble of older aristocratic British women in the 1930s, who have wholeheartedly adopted the romantic Italian countryside as their home. They live as an enclave of Englishness on the crowded Italian streets, insisting on adherence to strict British customs ("Here we have tea promptly at four, not at quarter-past!"). Their adoration of Titian and Michaelangelo does not extend to learning a word of Italian or interacting with the local peasantry, who call them the "Scorpioni" for their scathing wit.

These women are an eclectic bunch — Arabella (Judi Dench) is an eccentric artist who acts out performances of poetry and insists on the company of her dog as she paints in the cathedral. Lady Hester, (Maggie Smith), the aristocratic grande dame of the group, manages to mention her late husband's ambassador status in every sentence. And the group is rounded out by two Americans, the flamboyant Elsa (Cher) and her friend, Georgie (Jill Tomlin).

Mary (Joan Plowright), the only one who seems to have a job, works as a secretary for an Italian businessman. But her boss begins to push her into tutoring his illegitimate son, Luca (Charlie Lucas). She does not want the job, and would much rather the father take responsibility.

But the child's mother is dead, the father finds the son an embarrassment, his new wife hisses cruelly that the child is a bastard, and Luca's school appears to be a dismal orphanage. Reluctantly, she takes in the child, and enlists the help of the other women.

As in another recent movie, "The Harmonists," the movie shows how deeply people can be convinced that their world is unassailable. These characters have a blithe innocence of the reality around them that becomes truly pitiable.

"Tea With Mussolini," like the superior "Cinema Paradiso" or "Radio Days," is a gentle and lovely film, supposedly based on Zeffirelli's own memories of wartime, and told with a warm nostalgia. For viewers satisfied with a series of beautiful, anecdotal scenes, this will be a movie to treasure.

Some viewers will be annoyed by the swings in focus and tone. With a less muddled story, this could have been a truly great film — it's great to look at and has a dream team of actresses. Others, content to be carried along with the film, will find it a charming piece of entertainment.
